Jets' Richardson wants to be done with agent recruitment FLORHAM PARK, N.J. — Eric Kennison waited to talk to Jimmy Chitwood about becoming the New York Jets' new GM for two reasons: 1. He had never met him and 2. He was a player. A player that would be picked by the Jets at No. 1 overall in the 1988 NFL draft, then an assistant coach with the team until moving behind the team's old scout, Chitwood. "He approached me and asked if I could help him set up a connection to the new GM," Chitwood said Tuesday. "I agreed to help him, and he never called me. So I never met him and I never met the new GM." In the course of being interviewed by Jeff Zrebiec of The Record for a book on the new coach, Chitwood decided to call Kennison to get his thoughts on Chitwood. As an assistant coach, Chitwood said he would ask his players why they liked him so much. "He'd say 'Chitwood's good to me' or 'Chitwood treats us well,'" he said. "I'd say 'Okay, I understand that.' And then, I'd ask the guy why. And I'd say 'Maybe it's because you played football with him and he was your position coach and your head coach.' And those are not answers that I'd get." Chitwood had no issue when he met Kennison. "I think he looks good. I think he's smart," he said. "But I'm not sure I would have selected him number one." The book is called "The Jastremski Solution: The Simple Plan to Building a Champion in the NFL." It is authored by
